Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The University of Chicago: A Sketch In 1891, a complete prospectus of the University of Chicago, worked out in detail, was sent to more than fifty American colleges and universities for criticism. When it was learned that the proposed university had not yet broken ground, a ripple of smiles spread over the educational world. These plans, however, were as far as possible from being visionary; they were previsionary - products of the thought of men who were building for a large future, and who wished the foundations laid broad and deep. This policy of forethoughtfulness is perhaps more characteristic of the University of Chicago than any other one thing. It is evident everywhere - in plans for building, in the relations of the University with other schools and colleges, in the arrangement of curricula, in the guidance of social tendencies - wherever one chooses to look. And not only in the present, but from the beginning this method has prevailed in shaping the University. When, in 1886, the old University of Chicago, founded by Stephen...
